Senator Morgan reopened his fight against the canal by seeking delay in the committee, but was defeated. Mississippi senate instructs the state's United States senators to vote for the treaty.

Ever since Governor Altgeld pardoned those Haymarket anarchists, Chicago's degeneracy and lawlessness have increased from day to day. That unmerited act of clemency was a colossal mistake.—South Bend Times.

Wars of the last 3,000 years are supposed to have cost $600,000,000,000. Each man who falls on the battlefield costs $2,740 to kill, and the countries of Europe today are paying to maintain an "armed neutrality" the small sum of $50 a second.

A statement of the loss by fire in the United States and Canada for the year just closed, compiled by the New York Journal of Commerce, shows a total of $156,195,700. This is the greatest fire loss since 1893, with the exception of 1900 and 1901.

Statesmen in Washington are vexed at the delay of China in ratifying the treaty opening two Manchurian ports to trade with the United States, and it is recalled that one clause, providing for independent foreign municipal government, is against the policy of Russia.

All diplomats at St. Petersburg have abandoned hopes of peace and expect hostilities to break out at any moment or as soon as Japanese troops land in Korea. Russia's reply to the Tokio demands is unsatisfactory and an emergency session of the cabinet has been called.

The Populists of Indiana will seek to bring the next national convention of the party to Indianapolis. The middle-of-the-road and the fusionist factions in Indianapolis are being brought together, and a conference this week of about forty leaders it was decided to send a committee to the conference to be held in St. Louis on Washington's birthday to make an effort to capture the national convention.

In pointing out what he conceives to be "party perils" that menace the success of his party in the coming national campaign Senator Platt of New York resorts to a line of argument that will strike the old-time politicians as something unusual and original, but it is true. In a speech at the complimentary dinner given to him by the republican members of the New York congressional delegation he said that the government under President Roosevelt had been "strong and wise, but it often happens in politics that a political party which has had a long lease of power is never so much in danger as when nobody has anything in particular to complain of."

It certainly looks very much like war between Russia and Japan; and both nations have such alliances that it will be wonderful if war should be confined to a duel and not drag in one or another nation. It is entirely conceivable that such a war may involve all the powers of Europe. The condition of the Japanese army is a subject of widespread interest. It is perhaps, rated higher by the world at large than a test in such a campaign, as one against Russia would be, may show. It will be remembered that in the march to Peking by the allies the Japanese army was marked by the military experts of the world there at 100 per cent; that is, at every point of efficiency, equipment and management it was perfect. But F. J. Norman, an old English soldier, a resident of Japan for years and a professor in her colleges, both military and civil, thinks it is not so good now. The Japanese army was constituted of the fighting classes, which, in Japan as in India and all other oriental countries, are distinct. Now it is made up by conscription, which brings in all classes, irrespective of their fighting qualities.—Ind's News.

Representative Williams, the democratic leader of the house, has become an ardent champion of Canadian reciprocity; and he believes it will make a good campaign issue.

Dale J. Crittenden, one of the owners of the Anderson News has become associate editor of the Indianapolis Sentinel, the state organ of the democratic party now owned by Thomas Taggart.

Russia has a state monopoly of the brandy industry, from which she derives the enormous revenue of $300,000,000 a year. To help out the treasury in the present crisis the government will monopolize the sale of tea and sugar.

Within ten years a network of rice farms has been formed from New Orleans to Galveston in land previously useless. There are now 570,000 acres in rice, $26,000,000 invested in canals, machinery and mills, and an annual product of 4,500,000 barrels, valued at $15,500,000.

Pointing out how ineffective past congressional investigations of the Postoffice Department have been is not a very good argument against congress making an investigation of the present state of affairs, but it is a pretty severe indictment of the congresses which made these investigations.

A German editor has been sent to jail for three months for saying that Emperor William's job consisted of getting $10,000 whenever he signed a law. William is determined to show that he is earning his salary, even if he has to imprison every editor in Germany for the purpose of furnishing the necessary proof.

Secretary Hitchcock, of the Interior Department, has recommended to the president that the office of railroad commissioner held by the late General James Longstreet, be abolished. It seems probable now that that recommendation will be adopted and that no successor to General Longstreet will be appointed. The duties of the office practically have been absorbed by the Interstate-commerce Commission.

Representative Robinson of the Fort Wayne district is one of the democrats who believes that New York should furnish the next democratic candidate for president. In an interview at Washington a few days ago he said: "New York undoubtedly holds the key to the situation. It is very desirable that the democrats should select a man from that state. While New York should furnish the head of the ticket, Indiana can furnish the vice-presidential candidate—Benjamin F. Shively."

After all, the question of most importance to be decided at the district convention at South Bend, is whether or not Walter Brown and his adherents shall be permitted to wreck the republican party of the Thirteenth district as badly as the Elkhart bank was wrecked. The Indianapolis Journal says State Chairman Goodrich asserts that the election of delegates to the national convention and the nomination of presidential electors was not contemplated in the call by the state committee and no other district will attempt their selection.

Though Andrew Carnegie has given millions to libraries, one gift which will be most useful to humanity is the fund he set aside for a Carnegie institution at Washington, which is grants of money to carry on original research by scientific men of standing. These grants cover a wide range. They take in everything from archaeology to mechanical engineering. Then, the grants are large enough to relieve the investigator from all anxiety regarding his own living, his time and mind being thus free to pursue his work with undivided attention.

An interesting bit of gossip going the rounds of republicans who take an active hand in party affairs, says the Indianapolis Journal, is to the effect that the Indianapolis News will in the coming campaign support the democratic county, congressional and state tickets. According to the story, which comes from reliable sources, one of the men largely interested in the News confided to a friend a few days ago that it had been determined that the policy of the News in this campaign should be to support the democratic tickets. Since 1896 the News has thrown its influence to the republicans, except in the recent municipal campaign in Indianapolis, when it supported Mayor Holtzman.

Commissioner of Pensions Ware has decided that all rights of pension are barred by conviction of crime and sentence to prison for life.

A Moslem league has been formed at Bagdad to fight Christianity. The Indianapolis Journal says it is good news to hear that there is enough Christianity in that part of the world to make the formation of such a league necessary.

This country deplores war, whenever and wherever it takes place, but, if it must occur, the United States is always ready and willing to furnish supplies to the combatants. Russia and Japan are now reported to be buying coal in this country.

The appointment of Major General Chaffee as chief of staff makes him the President's confidential military adviser and practically commander of the army. The honor has been well earned by General Chaffee, who began his military career as a private soldier during the civil war.

The squirrels in Central Park, New York, have become so used to being taken care of that they not only neglect to provide homes for themselves in hollow trees, but actually fall in lay up a winter store of nuts. Thus we have another instance of the evil effect of a paternal government on the self-reliance of its subjects.

Out of 32 votes in the Mississippi state senate there was but one cast against the resolution instructing the members of the United States senate from that state to vote for the Panama canal treaty. Louisiana has instructed likewise and no doubt other southern legislatures will do the same.

Ex-Secretary of State Richard Olney's booming of Grover Cleveland for the presidential nomination at the McClellan dinner in New York, Monday night, has again aroused the whole country on the probable candidacy of the former president. There is no denying the fact that in the east Cleveland is powerfully strong.

Now that the reclamation of arid lands in the West has become so vital a question, it is interesting to note what has been done in Egypt by scientific irrigation. Along the banks of the Nile for ages there have been a lot of old lake beds which were dry salt plains in summer and covered with a few inches of alkali water in the wet season. These waste lands have been reclaimed by the British government and are now worth from $200 to $300 an acre.

It is a strange thing to find that Russia is practically friendless in the present crisis and that the sympathy of the whole world is with Japan. Of course, none of this feeling has been officially expressed or hinted at, but the sentiment of the various countries is pretty accurately reflected in the columns of their respective newspapers. Even France is siding with the plucky little Eastern nation, though thereby she arrays herself on the side of her traditional enemy, England, and against her traditional friend, the Czar.

The year 1903 was one of very unusual and perplexing conditions in business, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger. While the general trade of the country continued active, the railroads were busy, and the exports and imports exceeded the record of any previous year, many important branches of industry were seriously disturbed or impaired, and the collapse in speculative securities brought in an element of uncertainty which further confused the calculations of the business world. While not all of these obscurities have been removed, the year opens with a general feeling of hopeful expectation.

In Syracuse, N. Y., a husband accused of beating his wife says that he struck her under the direction of a physician who had advised him to take this heroic method of curing her of hysteria. (This opens a novel line of defense pregnant with vast possibilities for future wife-beaters. It is a fact well known in the medical profession that a sharp slap will often put an immediate end to the most violent and alarming case of hysteria. However, it is hardly necessary to knock a woman down with a chair, black her eyes and choke her into insensibility. Juries may know where to draw the line between therapeutics and brutality.—Indianapolis Journal.

Dun's weekly review of Chicago trade shows promising conditions for the ensuing year. Employment is assured and grain shipments and bank clearings show an increase.

Michael W. Louis, former superintendent of supplies in the Postoffice Department, says Postmaster General Payne and others for $50,000 because he was dismissed from office without an opportunity to defend himself.

James J. Hill, speaking at a reception in St. Paul, Minn., to President Elliott of the Northern Pacific, declares that a railroad which restrains trade will go "broke," and that to be successful it must aid in developing the resources of the country.

Evidence accumulates at the coroner's inquest that the Iroquois Theater was not equipped with adequate fire-fighting apparatus, and that the employees never were instructed what to do in event of fire. One witness tells of a clash of authority in which Manager Davis figured.

The inquiry into the mortality among the rats on the German steamer Cordoba, from Santos, Brazil, Nov. 25, via Bahia, Dec. 2, confirms the report that they died of bubonic plague. The vessel has been towed to Strasshafen and quarantined. There is no sickness among the crew and it is officially announced that the precautions taken preclude the possibility of public danger.

John R. McLean, editor of and owner of the Cincinnati Enquirer declares in a humorous, explicit and emphatic manner that there is no truth whatever in the oft-repeated statement that he is in control of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette and therefore responsible for the anti-Roosevelt attitude of that Republican paper. Mr. McLean likewise pronounces false the allegation that he is arranging to set up a machine for the control of Democratic politics in Ohio. He says he is "hewing to the line, and is indifferent as to whose eye is damaged by a chip."

The Farmer of Today.
The imaginative reporter for the city press has had his ideal of the farmer shattered. Instead of the "hayseed" of the funny papers, he finds this week in Indianapolis at the annual State congress of agriculturists a fine body of men who compare favorably with city folk. In addition to being attired in as up-to-date clothing as the city man, the farmer possesses a ruddy, healthful complexion and an eye undimmed by artificial light and clinders. The city-bred business man finds his equal, if not his superior, in the country-bred business man. It was not left for the interurban or rural mail service to bring these countrymen up to a high standard. Remote from these modern conveniences there have been held for many years gatherings known as farmers' institutes. In these splendid schools the farmer's mind has broadened and today he takes his place with his cousins of the towns and cities.—Indianapolis Star.

A North Liberty Story.
Say all you have a mind to about woe in a great city, our rural calamities have their tragedies no less renowned. Take the following from the North Liberty Indian, for instance: "A local farmer hired a boy to help him about the place. One morning he told the boy to go out and salt the calf over in the pasture. The boy took a quart of salt, and rubbed it all over the calf. A gang of colts in the pasture scented the salt and got after the calf. They licked all the salt off the calf's back and tried to lick the hide off, too. The farmer tried to catch the calf and wash it. But the calf, thinking that he wanted to lick, too, ran through a hole in the fence and disappeared down the road."

Lawyers Don't Make Good Laws.
A former county clerk has filed a claim with the County Commissioners for $12,880, due for service in attending certain courts. Of course, nobody supposes that these services were worth this amount, but a recent interpretation of the law seems to give claim substance. It is curious that lawmakers can not say what they mean so plainly that courts can not find a way to make their language mean something else.—Indianapolis News.

A Vest-Pocket Doctor.
Never in the way, no trouble to carry, easy to take, pleasant and never failing in results are DeWitt's Little Early Risers. A vial of these little pills in the vest-pocket is a certain guarantee against headache, biliousness, torpid liver and all of the ills resulting from constipation. They tone and strengthen the liver. Sold by all druggists.

What's in a Name.
Everything is in the name when it comes to Witch Hazel Balm. E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago discovered some years ago how to make a salve from Witch Hazel that is a specific for Piles. For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding Piles, eczema, cuts, burns, bruises and all skin diseases DeWitt's Balm has no equal. This has given rise to numerous worthless counterfeits. Ask for DeWitt's—the genuine. Sold by all druggists.

Immigrants Going Back.
The number of recent immigrants to the United States who are transforming themselves into emigrants will surprise the country. One steamer recently left New York with 1,500 steerage passengers for Liverpool, which is the largest number ever carried by any vessel from any port of the United States. It is said that the number of recent arrivals who have left New York for their old homes in Europe in the past week is about 9,000. Nothing like this begira was ever seen in the past, although some emigrants leave New York every day in the year for the old world. In the past fiscal year the number of immigrants to the United States was 857,000. This was not only a larger number than came here in 1902, but was larger than that of 1892, which held the record until the year just closed. Many of these were objectionable persons, whom the country would be better off without, but the great bulk of them were calculated to strengthen the country. One serious drawback, however, attending the recent migration is that a large majority of the arrivals concentrate in four states—New York, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Illinois—and most of those flock to the big cities—New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago—where the labor market is already flooded. This is one weakness of the recent immigration movement. It is doubtless one cause of the present exodus. Finding no work, the immigrants suppose the whole country is overstocked with laborers, and they return to Europe.

Ready-Made Estates in England.
The state department at Washington for some time past has been receiving inquiries from people of moderate circumstances and some apparently almost in poverty as to the operations of some one known as George Thatcher, who has addressed notes to various people representing himself to be the administrator of vast estates in England in which those addressed were informed they had an interest. Some at least of those written to paid fees to Thatcher, and receiving no interests in the alleged estates, inquired of the State Department for information as to the estates. The department referred some of these inquiries to the United States embassy at London, and acting Secretary Loomis has just received a report from that office to the effect that Thatcher had been prosecuted for fraud and forgery in London before the Chancery Court in 1899 and pleaded guilty and had been sentenced to eighteen months' imprisonment. A great many of the inquiries came from Dayton, O., and its vicinity.

Important It True.
If a story recently sent out from Wichita, Kan., is true, a find has been made which will astonish archaeologists. In a shaft sunk by the Weir Junction Coal Company a fossilized bark box was discovered, which contained three flint arrow heads. This box and contents were solidly imbedded in fire clay, fifty feet under ground, below two beds of coal. Previous to this discovery the earliest traces of humanity in this country were found in glacial deposits—a reindeer horn with the figure of a mammoth carved upon it. But this goes far back of the glacial period. It is important, if true.

Deputy Clerk in Prison.
Charles Brown, deputy county clerk for the criminal court at Indianapolis, was taken to Michigan City this week to serve from six months to 14 years for illegally altering the court records for the purpose of misappropriating county funds for his own use. He was convicted in the same court in which he had seen hundreds sentenced to prison.

While in his position Brown changed the records of the court, appropriating a small sum of money for his own use. When it was first discovered it was thought merely a mistake had been made, and the books were gone over again. But other alterations were found, and Brown was arrested.

Olney and Cleveland.
Was Mr. Olney aware, when he prepared his extemporaneous remarks to be delivered at the New York democratic banquet last night, that Mr. Cleveland would not be present; and, also, was Mr. Cleveland aware, when he found that he would be unable to be present, that Mr. Olney was going to deliver such a speech? The suspicions of the politicians are easily aroused these days when the Cleveland boom apparently has more lives than a cat.—Indianapolis News.

Chills and Fever.
Chicago, Jan. 7.—As a consequence of the breaking off of peace negotiations between stationary engineers and the Hotelkeepers' association regarding wages and hours of labor, twenty-five hotels were "struck." Little convenience was caused, because at half the places the men refused to obey the strike order, and the strikers' places were promptly filled.

Found a Cure For Indigestion.
I use Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets for indigestion and find that they suit my case better than any dyspepsia remedy I have ever tried and I have used many different remedies. I am nearly fifty years of age and have suffered a great deal from indigestion. I can eat almost anything I want to now.—Geo. W. Emory, Rock Mills, Ala. For sale by all druggists.

Coliseum Is All Right.
Chicago, Jan. 7.—Although the Coliseum, in which the national Republican convention is to be held in June, was closed by order of Building Commissioner Williams, it is stated that the order will be soon rescinded and that no change in convention plans will be necessary. Senator Hanna has been here examining the facilities and says everything is all right.

Cured After Suffering 10 Years.
B. F. Hare, Supt. Miami Cycle & Mfg. Co., Middletown, O., suffered for ten years with dyspepsia. He spent hundreds of dollars for medicine and with doctors without receiving any permanent benefit. He says, "One night while feeling exceptionally bad I was about to throw down the evening paper when I saw an item in the paper regarding the merits of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure. I concluded to try it and while I had no faith in it I felt better after the second dose. After using two bottles I am stronger and better than I have been in years, and I recommend Kodol Dyspepsia Cure to my friends and acquaintances suffering from stomach trouble. Sold by all druggists.

No Successor to Longstreet.
Washington, Jan. 7.—Secretary Hitchcock, of the interior department, has recommended to the president that the office of railroad commissioner held by the late General James Longstreet be established. It seems probable now that that recommendation will be adopted and that no successor will be appointed.

"Little colds" neglected—thous and of lives sacrificed every year: Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures little colds—cures big colds too, down to the very verge of consumption.

When bilious try a dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and realize for once how quickly a first-class up-to-date medicine will correct the disorder. For sale by all druggists.

Wash's Cry "Fire" at a Show.
Anderson, Ind., Jan. 6.—The city council passed an ordinance making it an offense to cry "Fire" at any place of amusement or church in order to guard against panics. The fire chief was instructed to examine all theaters.

"Uncle John" King Dead.
Danville, Ind., Jan. 6.—"Uncle John" King, nearly 91 years old, and a pioneer of this county, was found dead in bed at his home, five miles northeast of here. He died from old age and an attack of the grip.

A Prisoner in Her Own House.
Mrs. W. H. Layba, of 100 Agnes Ave., Kansas City, Mo., has for several years been troubled with severe hoarseness and at times a hard cough, which she says, "Would keep me in doors for days, I was prescribed for by physicians with no noticeable results. A friend gave me part of a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with instructions to closely follow the directions and I wish to state that after the first day I could notice a decided change for the better, and at this time after using it for two weeks, have no hesitation in saying that I realize that I am entirely cured. This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

No Extra Pay for Overtime on Sunday Work Hereafter, and No Holidays Observed.

Pittsburg, Jan. 7.—Another notice has been issued to the employees of the Homestead Steel works to the effect that hereafter overtime and Sunday work will not be paid extra, but that the regular daily wage rate will apply. This only affects the men in the mechanical department. These men have been getting time and a half for all work done after the regular time. The notices also state that no holidays will be observed in this department.

There has been a great deal of comment among the men concerning this arrangement. The notices state that any one not accepting single pay for overtime can get his time at the office. The men are very quiet, and all are anxiously awaiting the action of the company in regard to the proposition submitted by hands at several of the mills.

Mr. Wm. S. Crane, of California, Md. suffered for years from rheumatism and lumbago. He was finally advised to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which he did and it effected a complete cure. For sale by all druggists.
